Prisoner's Wife First Denies Then Admits She Was in New York on Night of Murder.

Special Despatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD BUFFALO, April 7 .- Roy Harris, the gilb and possibly truthful young man who says he was an accomplice in the murder of Joseph B. Elwell in New York, was cross-examined to-night for the first time by men who knew the circumstances of the crime. They were New York reporters who knew every inch of Elwell's house.

His most important assertion to night was this: He says that for two months after the murder he hung around New York looking for the "Mrs. Fairchild" who had paid the two murderers $1,000 and then welched on the rest of the $5,000. He swears that in This announcement by Mr. a New York evening paper, ten days or so after Elwell was killed, he saw have been Mrs. Fairchild's. MIDDLE WEST MAIL ROBBERS GET $6,801,750 IN 10 MONTHS; $500,000 IN CHICAGO LATEST

CHICAGO, April 7 .- The daring daylight robbery of $500,000 worth of currency and negotiable securities from a mail truck at the Dearborn street railroad station here yesterday marked the eleventh of a series of major mail robberies throughout the middle West in ten months, according to statistics made public by postal authorities to-night.

Many of these robberies, the Department stated, have been solved, notably the $3,500,000 holdup near Omaha recently, and the $212,000 mail robbery at Mount Vernon, Ill., about two months ago. Loot in the robberies totalled $6,801,750. They are listed in the order of their occurrence as follows: July 29, 1920-Bonds valued at $200,000 were stolen while in transit from Paine, Webber & Co., Chicago, to the firm's offices in New York city.

August 8, 1920-Two Chicago boys, then in Cleveland as bank messengers, disappeared with $53,000 in Liberty bonds, after receiving them from the post office.

August 20, 1920-Five bandits held up postal agent and boy helpers at the Eleventh Street Station of the Illinois Central Railroad, and escaped with $100,000 in registered mail. November 13. 1920-Registered mail shipments valued at $3,500,000 stolen from railroad train between Omsha and Council January 14, 1921-The Rev. Guy Kyle, ex-Methodist clergy man, held up the mail at Mount Vernon, Ill., and escaped with $212,000. Kyle was arrested and confessed. The loot was recovered

January 18, 1921-Four bandits held up mail truck at Union Station here and escaped with $500,000 in negotiable securities January 31, 1921-Louis Schiavone, 16 years old, driver for the Auburn Park Subpostal Station, fled with $31,750 registered mail.

Was later arrested and confessed. February 4, 1921-Five bandits raided the depot at St. Charles, Mo., and escaped with registered mail valued at $100,000. February 17, 1921-Five bandits in Toledo, Ohio, escaped with
